

Teacher Website Navigation and Internal Page Routing

Developer and Content Architecture Addendum

Document Purpose

[INTERNAL INSTRUCTION — DO NOT DISPLAY]

This document should be used together with the existing:

Teacher Homepage — Website Content and Media Placement Document

It defines:

1. Teacher navigation destinations
2. Dedicated pages required for each navigation item
3. Homepage-to-detailed-page routing
4. Read More link placement
5. Recommended page URLs
6. Content scope for every detailed page

All text inside square brackets is an internal instruction and must not appear on the live website.

Teacher Navigation

[WEBSITE NAVIGATION]

How It Helps | Plan & Create | Assess & Support | Tutorials | Sign In

[PRIMARY NAVIGATION BUTTON]

Navigation Behaviour

[DEVELOPER IMPLEMENTATION NOTE — DO NOT DISPLAY]

Each navigation item must open a separate page.

Do not make these navigation items scroll only to homepage sections.

Use the following page routes:

- How It Helps: `/teachers/how-it-helps`
- Plan & Create: `/teachers/plan-and-create`
- Assess & Support: `/teachers/assess-and-support`
- Tutorials: `/teachers/tutorials`
- Sign In: Teacher authentication page
- Start as a Teacher: Teacher registration or onboarding page

Every dedicated page must retain the Teacher navigation and show the active navigation item.

Example:

When the visitor is on `/teachers/plan-and-create`, highlight:

Plan & Create

Homepage Read More Routing

[INTERNAL INSTRUCTION — DO NOT DISPLAY]

Each relevant homepage section should contain a small secondary text link:

Read More →

The Read More link must route to the same page as the corresponding navigation item.

For accessibility, the visible text may remain “Read More,” but the developer must add a descriptive accessible label.

Example:

Visible link:

Read More →

Accessible label:

"Read more about teacher planning and content creation"

Page Purpose

[INTERNAL INSTRUCTION — DO NOT DISPLAY]

This page should explain the overall transformation Classess.com® creates for a teacher.

It should focus primarily on outcomes rather than listing every tool.

It should answer:

- How will this improve my teaching?
 - How will it reduce repetitive work?
 - How will it help me understand students?
 - How will it support better decisions?
 - How does AI assist without replacing me?
 - Can I use it independently or through my institution?

Page Hero

[WEBSITE HEADING]

Better support for every stage of teaching.

[WEBSITE COPY]

Classess.com® connects planning, classroom learning, assessment, feedback, student support, and progress into one academic journey—helping teachers work with greater clarity and respond to students more effectively.

Page Section 1: A Connected Teaching Journey

[WEBSITE HEADING]

Teaching does not happen in disconnected steps.

[WEBSITE COPY]

A lesson plan influences classroom learning. Classroom learning influences assessment. Assessment reveals student needs. Those needs should guide feedback, intervention, and the next lesson.

Classess.com® connects these stages so teachers can move from activity to insight and from insight to meaningful action.

[VISIBLE JOURNEY]

Plan → Teach → Assess → Understand → Support → Improve

Page Section 2: More Time for Meaningful Teaching

[WEBSITE HEADING]

Reduce repetitive work without reducing teacher involvement.

[WEBSITE COPY]

Classess.com® can support the preparation of lesson drafts, resources, questions, rubrics, feedback, reports, and learning recommendations.

Teachers remain responsible for reviewing, editing, approving, and applying these academic outputs.

[VISIBLE OUTCOMES]

- Less time starting from a blank page
 - More consistent academic preparation
 - Faster access to usable teaching resources
 - Reduced repetitive assessment work
 - More time for student interaction and support

Page Section 3: Better Visibility into Learning

[WEBSITE HEADING]

Understand what students learned—not only what was taught.

[WEBSITE COPY]

Classess.com® brings together classroom responses, practice, assignments, assessments, and feedback to help teachers see where students are succeeding and where support is required.

[VISIBLE OUTCOMES]

- Identify misunderstanding earlier
 - Recognise repeated mistakes
 - Distinguish non-participation from learning difficulty
 - Find students ready for further challenge
 - Make the next lesson more responsive

Page Section 4: Support That Matches the Need

[WEBSITE HEADING]

Different learning needs require different responses.

[WEBSITE COPY]

A student who did not attempt an activity may need a different response from a student who attempted it but struggled with application.

Classess.com® helps teachers understand the difference and select more appropriate support.

[VISIBLE SUPPORT OPTIONS]

- Reteaching
 - Guided practice
 - Revision
 - Remedial learning
 - Personal feedback
 - Additional examples
 - Extension activities
 - Follow-up assessment

Page Section 5: Teacher-Controlled AI

[SECTION ID — DO NOT DISPLAY]

teacher-controlled-ai

[WEBSITE HEADING]

AI supports professional judgement. It does not replace it.

[WEBSITE COPY]

AI-supported outputs can be reviewed, edited, regenerated, approved, or rejected before they are assigned or shared.

Teachers continue to shape the learning experience and make the final academic decision.

[VISIBLE PRINCIPLES]

- Teacher approval
 - Editable outputs
 - Curriculum alignment
 - Academic context
 - Transparent recommendations
 - Responsible student-data use
 - Role-based permissions

Page Section 6: Independent or Institution-Connected Use

[WEBSITE HEADING]

Use Classess.com® independently or through your institution.

[WEBSITE COPY]

Independent teachers and tutors can use available tools for planning, content creation, assessments, feedback, and student support.

Institution-connected teachers can additionally work within the curriculum, policies, academic structures, classes, and reporting requirements configured by their institution.

[INTERNAL INSTRUCTION — DO NOT DISPLAY]

This page should explain how teachers move from curriculum requirements to classroom-ready academic material.

It should cover:

- Curriculum and syllabus planning
- Lesson and session planning
- Academic content creation
- Classroom resources
- Worksheets and assignments
- Question creation
- Differentiation
- Teacher review and approval
- Reuse and improvement of existing work

Do not disclose proprietary prompting, internal AI architecture, or confidential generation logic.

Explain the teacher experience and outcomes, not the underlying technical secrets.

[WEBSITE HEADING]

Start with what you are expected to teach.

[WEBSITE COPY]

Select or confirm the curriculum, grade, subject, unit, topic, learning outcome, duration, and student context.

Classess.com® uses this information to help prepare more relevant academic material.

[VISIBLE OUTCOME]

Teachers spend less time repeatedly entering the same academic context and more time refining the learning experience.

Page Section 2: Create Structured Lesson Plans

[WEBSITE HEADING]

Begin with a useful draft—not a blank page.

[WEBSITE COPY]

Create a lesson or session plan containing appropriate learning objectives, teaching steps, explanations, examples, activities, checks for understanding, resources, and follow-up actions.

Teachers can review, edit, reorder, remove, or add content before approval.

[VISIBLE BENEFITS]

- Faster preparation
 - Better curriculum alignment
 - More consistent lesson structure
 - Easier adaptation
 - Teacher-controlled final output

Page Section 3: Prepare Classroom Resources

[WEBSITE HEADING]

Create the resources your lesson actually needs.

[WEBSITE COPY]

Develop supporting academic material connected to the lesson rather than searching through unrelated resources.

[RESOURCE EXAMPLES]

- Explanations
 - Examples
 - Classroom activities
 - Discussion prompts
 - Visual aids
 - Worksheets
 - Assignments
 - Reading material
 - Revision activities
 - Exit questions

Page Section 4: Adapt for Different Learners

[WEBSITE HEADING]

One classroom does not mean one learning need.

[WEBSITE COPY]

Teachers can adapt explanations, activities, questions, and support according to student readiness, learning difficulty, language needs, or required challenge.

[VISIBLE OUTCOMES]

- Simpler explanations where needed
 - Guided examples for developing learners
 - Additional practice for identified gaps
 - Extension work for advanced learners
 - Multiple ways to approach the same concept

Page Section 5: Build Assessments from the Learning

[WEBSITE HEADING]

Assess what was intended to be learned.

[WEBSITE COPY]

Create questions and assessment activities connected to the topic, learning outcome, skill, difficulty, and expected depth of understanding.

[VISIBLE OPTIONS]

- Objective questions
- Short responses
- Descriptive responses
- Application questions
- Reasoning questions
- Rubric-based activities
- Practice quizzes
- Exit checks
- Assignments

[INTERNAL CONTENT NOTE — DO NOT DISPLAY]

Detailed evaluation, feedback, analytics, and intervention belong on the Assess & Support page.

This section should cover assessment creation only.

Page Section 7: Reuse and Improve

[WEBSITE HEADING]

Build on your best academic work.

[WEBSITE COPY]

Save, duplicate, adapt, and improve previously created lessons and resources instead of recreating them for every class, section, or academic year.

[VISIBLE OUTCOMES]

- More consistent quality
 - Less repeated preparation
 - Easier collaboration
 - Continuous improvement
 - Stronger personal teaching library

[WEBSITE HEADING]

Assess more than memory.

[WEBSITE COPY]

Use different question and activity formats to understand recall, conceptual understanding, application, reasoning, communication, and other relevant academic skills.

[VISIBLE ASSESSMENT SUPPORT]

- Curriculum alignment
- Difficulty selection
- Learning-outcome mapping
- Rubrics
- Marking schemes
- Attempted and unattempted responses
- Question-level review
- Skill-level understanding

Page Section 3: More Consistent Evaluation

[WEBSITE HEADING]

Reduce repetitive review while maintaining teacher oversight.

[WEBSITE COPY]

Classess.com® can support the review of objective and descriptive work, organise response evidence, and apply approved rubrics or marking criteria.

Teachers remain responsible for reviewing results and making final decisions, particularly for subjective or high-stakes evaluation.

Page Section 4: Feedback Students Can Use

[WEBSITE HEADING]

Help students understand what to improve next.

[WEBSITE COPY]

Provide feedback through written comments, structured statements, rubrics, or voice where available.

Effective feedback should explain:

- What the student understood
- Where the difficulty occurred
- What needs improvement
- What action should be taken next

[VISIBLE FEEDBACK JOURNEY]

Performance → Explanation → Next Action

Page Section 5: Student Insights

[SECTION ID — DO NOT DISPLAY]

[WEBSITE HEADING]

See who needs support—and understand why.

[WEBSITE COPY]

Classess.com® helps teachers distinguish between different student situations rather than placing every low score into one category.

[VISIBLE STUDENT GROUPS]

- Did not attempt
- Attempted but struggled
- Repeated the same mistake
- Improved after practice
- Demonstrated mastery
- Ready for additional challenge

Page Section 6: Learning Gaps

[WEBSITE HEADING]

Move beyond the score to the cause of difficulty.

[WEBSITE COPY]

Review topic-level, question-level, concept-level, and skill-level evidence to understand what may be preventing progress.

[VISIBLE INSIGHTS]

- Misunderstood concepts
- Weak application
- Missing prerequisite knowledge
- Repeated process errors
- Inconsistent participation
- Insufficient practice
- Areas requiring revision

Page Section 7: Intervention

[WEBSITE HEADING]

Match the support to the actual need.

[WEBSITE COPY]

Select or assign a response based on the student's learning evidence.

[VISIBLE SUPPORT ACTIONS]

- Reteach a concept
- Share a different explanation
- Assign guided practice
- Recommend revision
- Provide personal feedback
- Create a remedial activity
- Assign extension work
- Schedule a follow-up check

Page Section 8: Review Improvement

[WEBSITE HEADING]

Know whether the support made a difference.

[WEBSITE COPY]

After intervention, review later practice, assignments, or assessments to understand whether the student improved or requires a different approach.

Read More Design Requirements

[INTERNAL INSTRUCTION — DO NOT DISPLAY]

The Read More link should:

- Appear after the main section explanation
- Be visually smaller than the primary action button
- Include a right-facing arrow
- Use the same style throughout the homepage
- Have visible hover and keyboard-focus states
- Route to the relevant dedicated page or page section
- Include a descriptive accessibility label

Recommended visible format:

Read More →

Do not place more than one Read More link inside the same content block.

Page-Linking Principle

[INTERNAL INSTRUCTION — DO NOT DISPLAY]

The homepage answers:

Why should a teacher care?

The dedicated module page answers:

How will this help me, what outcomes can I expect, and what does the experience include?

The tutorial page answers:

How do I perform the task step by step?

Do not place full tutorials or detailed operating instructions on the homepage.

Do not turn the module pages into technical manuals.

Use this communication order:

Teacher problem → Expected outcome → Supporting capability → Brief working explanation → Evidence or demonstration → Call to action
